AgriGo4Cities

Participatory urban agriculture governance plan for fighting social exclusion in the Danube Region (and additional governance plans for CZE, SLO, RO, MNE, ALB, SK, HUN and GER)

<http://www.interreg-danube.eu/approved-projects/agrigo4cities/outputs>

In two years long learning process during which the eleven partners from eight countries worked together to develop and test a methodology for participatory urban agriculture. The partnership tried to reduce the gap in trust between public administration and citizens with incorporating participatory methods in decision-making while putting special emphasis on social groups that are threatened by the risk of exclusion. Furthermore, urban agriculture is also a tool for stimulating sustainable urban environment which is a crucial question in the current urban agendas. In this publication the partnership summarized the lessons learnt during the implementation of the project to provide guidance for implementing participatory urban agriculture practices.
